

Basic sailing course Croatia

Sailstar arranges basic sailing courses on a large sailing yacht in Croatia, one week course

Learn to sail on a sailing yacht in the Mediterranean sea. We arrange courses in Croatia two weeks in April-May (week 18 & 19) and two weeks in September-October (week 40 & 41).

Weekly courses Saturday-Saturday on a 44 foot boat, Jeanneau Sun Odyssey 440 with seating for 8 people, 6 course participants on board. It's an intensive week with lots of sailing but also a lot of social gathering.

You will learn sailing styles, sailing in theory and practice, sailing, give-way rules, man-over-board, navigation (light), knots, maneuvers, anchoring, docking and more on a large boat.

Instructor at these courses is Tomas Sandström, Founder of Sailstars, who is a highly experienced sailor and instructor. Tomas races everything from dinghies to big boats and holds Master Yachts Diplomas Class VIII.

We live aboard, there are eight bunks spread over four cabins. During the day we have courses and sails, we harbour to ports or nature ports in the evenings and usually we eat at any restaurant. Course fee includes course, boat rental and lodging on the boat. Additionally, travel, food, local transport and harbor rentals. Calculate an additional cost down for food on the boat, port charges and fuel of approximately 1 600 SEK per person.

Croatia, week 18 and 40

The first week of spring and autumn we sail to the classic islands of Solta, Hvar, Vis and Brač and possibly Korčula. The route may look like on the map next to it, but it can also differ some depending on the weather. The route will be about 140-160 nm for a week.

The ports we add are either marinas where or anchoring on a buoy or on our own anchor. But in general we always eat at the restaurant in the harbour.

Food on the boat, port charges and fuel we all share (including instructor) at cost price, counting 1 600 SEK for this cost. Own restaurant notes are added.

We depart from Trogir probably (hopefully) on Saturday afternoon just to get us out of the harbour. We are back in Trogir, Baotic Marina Seget on Friday afternoon.

Croatia, week 19 and 41

The second week of spring and autumn we sail to the Kornati nature reserve northwest of Trogir.

The route may look like on the map next to it, but it can also differ a little depending on the weather.

The route will be about 140-160 nm for a week. Kornati is a nature reserve with a large number of islands and sparsely populated areas than on other islands.

The ports we land at are mainly natural ports where we add on our own anchor (sway) or on buoy. Some or a couple of times we anchor at a marina. We will partially cook on the boat and in part eat at the restaurant.

Food on the boat, port charges, fee for the Kornati nature reserve and fuel we all share (including instructor) at cost price, count about 2,000 SEK for this cost. Own restaurant notes are added.

We depart from Trogir probably (hopefully) on Saturday afternoon just to get us out of the harbour. We are back in Trogir, Baotic Marina Seget on Friday afternoon.
